October 9, 2002

To whom it may concern:

The Flyer has engaged Austin Programmers Group on a number of projects since 1999. APG was instrumental in bringing our legacy applications to year 2000 compliance well before established deadlines. In addition, APG has delivered many enhancements that we have been able to dream up, but did not think was not possible within our legacy systems. This has significantly extended the life of our systems, significantly saving our organization money while providing additional revenue opportunities.

We continue to partner with APG because we know that we can count on professional service, the highest level of expertise, and an established company with experienced people who understand business.

Sincerely,
